

Aitchison Hall is a co-ed student residence hall located near the center of North Campus. Its location provides students with the opportunity to live directly in the campus environment and creates a living community for both learning and social growth.

Aitchison Hall has two floors for women and two floors for men, separated by a common lounge area.

Aitchison Hall was built in 1964 and honors beloved English professor Anna M. Aitchison. The interior of the building was renovated during the summer of 2005, and new furnishings have been placed throughout the building.
